CHAMPION JEFF WINS IN THE TENTH ROUND

Sixty Thousand Dollars Are Taken
At the Gate From Ten Thousand People.

Jeffries a Better Boxer Than Ever and Corbett
So Deteriorated That He Is Harmless.
Solar Plexus Blow Ends All.

JEFFRIES.

Associated Press Cablegram.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14—

There were ten thousand spectators in the Mechanics Pavilion tonight to see the Jeffries-Corbett fight. Sixty thousand dollars were taken at the door. Jeffries was the favorite with the crowd, the betting for him being two to one. The main event was preceded by two bouts, the first preliminary being a draw. In the second Evans knocked out Fairbanks. The Jeffries-Corbett fight by rounds was as follows:

First round—Even sparring.
Second round—Lively exchange of blows, result in favor of Jeffries.
Third round—Both men fighting strongly.
Fourth round—Corbett tired and steamless.
Fifth round—Jeffries received body blows.
Sixth round—Corbett down nine seconds from a blow on the chin.
Seventh round—Corbett clinches.
Eighth round—Corbett's blows ineffectual.
Ninth round—Corbett stronger.
Tenth round—Corbett thrice knocked down and finally counted out.

His seconds throw up the sponge. Jeffries wins.

Corbett was knocked out by a solar plexus blow, a repetition of the one which he got from Fitzsimmons at Carson City. Jeffries took punishment like a stone wall. He shows a wonderful improvement in boxing. Corbett has deteriorated so much that he is harmless. He congratulated the victor.

POPE WILL HAVE NONE OF POMP AND PAGEANTRY

ROME, Aug. 6.—The attention of Rome is now centered upon the solemn coronation ceremony which is to occur on Sunday, and for which great preparations are being made. The throne of St. Peter, which Pius X will occupy, will be surmounted by a canopy forty feet high. The function will consume five hours. The Pope has informed the Vatican officials that he wishes to be received on the threshold of the basilica by Cardinal Rampolla, who, as arch priest of the church, will address the formal greeting to him. At the conclusion of the ceremony the Pope will confer his blessing upon the people, but it has not yet been decided whether he will do so inside the church or from the balcony looking out upon the piazza, where many hoped he would bestow his benediction on the day of his election. It is said that Pius is favorable to the latter plan, but that the influence of the Vatican officials is against it, on the ground that it might be interpreted as a recognition of the present state of affairs in Italy. The holding of the coronation ceremonies in St. Peter's itself represents a concession, as in the case of Leo it occurred in the Sistine Chapel. Although it is expected that 60,000 tickets will be issued for the event, the demand for them is already very great. In the consistory to be held on Monday and Thursday next the Pope will confer the red hat upon Cardinals Aguti, Talani, Katschthaler and Hertero y Espinosa, who were elevated on June 25, but who have not yet received these symbols of rank because of the illness and death of Leo XIII. It is believed that the Spanish Cardinal, Herrera, will not be able to be present at the coronation ceremonies. Pope Pius X dined today with his friend Domperosi, a noted composer. This was a great surprise, as from time immemorial it has been the custom of Popes to dine alone. Cardinal Gibbons and a party of Americans were awaiting the Pope in the Vatican gardens today, and upon the Pontiff's arrival Cardinal Gibbons offered to kiss his hand, but Pius X, amid the warm plaudits of the party, kissed the Cardinal and embraced him affectionately. The new Pope made several departures from time-honored customs, which convinces all that his reign will be most progressive. The Pope is surprising the whole Vatican world by his great simplicity and objection to luxury. He has discarded all of the ceremonial and pomp which had attained such a remarkable degree of development during the pontificate of his predecessor. It is almost certain that he will abolish the greater number of poets now existing at the papal court, and it is said he intends to abolish absolutely the corps of Noble Guards, which consist of seventy-five titled members of the Roman aristocracy, who form the Pope's guard of honor when he goes to his apartments. He declines to be escorted by the Noble Guards or the Palatine Guards. Pope Pius has decided that no stands shall be erected for his coronation in St. Peter's. Consequently, contrary to

CORNELIA BAXTER TEVIS STILL MAKING TROUBLE

CORNELIA BAXTER TEVIS.

BAR HARBOR, August 6.—Lieutenant John R. Edie, U. S. N., made a call on the beautiful young widow, Mrs. Cornelia Baxter-Tevis, at her cottage here one evening a week ago. As a sequel to the visit the Lieutenant is now undergoing a court-martial after endeavoring to participate in a duel with Ernest A. Wiltsee, who has been spoken of as the fiancé of the widow. Mrs. Tevis, whose husband was the California millionaire, and who is only twenty years of age, declares that Lieutenant Edie offered her an insult. Captain Emory of the Indiana and a board of officers are seeking to discover just to what extent, if at all, the Lieutenant was guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman, as charged by the lovely complainant. Lieutenant Edie has gone on the naval maneuvers, while Mr. Wiltsee has been persuaded to go to Boston by the friends that separated them at the Kebo Valley Club dance on Saturday night last, when they were prevented from meeting on the field of honor only by inability to agree upon a choice of weapons.

THE COURT MARTIAL.

The officers hearing the matter have met every night since the charges were preferred at the Malvern and have not yet arrived at a decision. They can only report to Washington, where the findings may be pigeon-holed. Mrs. Tevis has with her at her cottage her sister. One of her friends in the navy is Lieutenant Chase Courtney. It was he who took Lieutenant Edie to call upon Mrs. Tevis and Miss Baxter. It appears that Lieutenant Edie got the impression that there was to be a lack of the strict conventions; that he and his chum were to have a lively evening with the Western beauties. Very soon after the introduction he is said to have seated himself familiarly on the arm of Miss Baxter's chair. Whether anything was said at the time or whether the impulsive Lieutenant was frozen out of the cottage is not made public, but on the next day a Mr. Peters, a close friend of Mrs. Tevis and her sister, was sent out to the Indiana to lodge a complaint with Captain Emory, with the idea of having Lieutenant Edie dismissed from the navy or severely reprimanded.

Captain Emory did what is always done under such circumstances. He ordered an inquiry. The board of officers met and took the testimony of Mrs. Tevis and Miss Baxter. They also heard the defense of the two officers, Lieutenant Courtney standing by his brother officer. Eventually all the officers were compelled to go on the maneuvers and the secret of what they intend to do is locked in their breasts. It is said in naval circles that the prosecution of young Edie before a court-martial is as absurd as was the trial in New York a few years ago of an Ensign because a girl was in love with him, the father of the lovelorn damsel preferring the charge that the Ensign was guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.

TO FIGHT WITH FISTS AND PISTOLS.

Lieutenant Edie was very angry when he heard of the action against him. His feelings were only smoldering when on Saturday night he went to the dance at the Kebo Valley Club. Mr. Wiltsee was there, too, also in no pleasant frame of mind. There was a dinner at which everything went smoothly and for a time after dancing began, when the two men met casually in the gay throng, neither betrayed his feelings. Later in the evening the anger of the men could no longer be restrained and despite the rules of hospitality they quarreled under the roof where they were guests. Which one provoked the other is not known, but at first abusive words were exchanged and then it was decided that blood only could obliterate the insults. Lieutenant Edie had the choice of weapons. He rejected the suggestion that swords be used, declaring that because of his training the sword would give him an advantage over his adversary. Mr. Wiltsee was willing to fight with pistols, and to this the Lieutenant agreed, providing that he first had an opportunity to fight the civilian with his fists. It was while this peculiarly informal prelude to a duel was in progress that friends interfered and the savage young men were taken far apart.

Wm. D. English Dead.

OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 14.—Wm. D. English is dead.

Wm. D. English has long been a Democratic leader of northern California and has held several offices, Federal and local. "Ole Bill English" was his street name. He was set down in the San Francisco directory of 1900 as secretary of the State Board of Harbor Commissioners. His home was in Oakland where he was a power in municipal and county politics. Last year he was operated on for appendicitis and had been an invalid since.

MANILA, Aug. 14.—Spanish war veterans celebrated Occupation Day by parading 800 strong.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—All refined sugar has advanced.

GOSSIP BY MAIL FROM AROUND THE WORLD

(ASSOCIATED PRESS MAIL SPECIAL.)

NEW YORK, August 8.—Charles A. Gould, son of the millionaire car coupling manufacturer, and his wife have been thrown from their automobile in front of their country home at Bayside, L. I. Three doctors were in attendance at 2 o'clock this morning but the couple had not regained consciousness and it is feared they will not recover.

They were descending a long hill when a horse that had apparently escaped from a near-by pasture jumped out into the road in front of the car. The big machine hit the horse, killing it instantly, pitching Mr. Gould and his wife headlong to the road. Mr. Gould had shut off the power when he saw the danger but the automobile was carried half up an opposite hill by the momentum before it came to a stop.

Mr. and Mrs. Gould were finally restored to consciousness and their condition is said to be improving today. Mr. Gould sustained a fractured shoulder and many bruises about the head and body. Mrs. Gould's nose was broken and her scalp cut.

THE HUMBERTS IN COURT.
PARIS, Aug. 8.—The notorious Humbert family today faced a judge and jury to meet the charge of having perpetrated what ex-Premier Waldeck-Rousseau described as "the greatest swindle of the century." Investigating Magistrate Leydet in May decided to commit Theresa Humbert, her husband, Frederick, and her brother, for trial on the charges of forgery, the use of forged documents and swindling. He dismissed the cases against Eva Humbert (Theresa's daughter) and Marie Duignac (her sister).

Public curiosity, which has followed the fortunes of the family since the days of its social brilliancy, is again intensely wrought up, the chief interest centering in "La Grande Theresa," who has promised to produce at this trial the mysterious American millionaire, the brothers Crawford, to whom she based her story of an inheritance of $20,000,000, which she put forward as the security for the loans she obtained, amounting to about $10,000,000.

The Palais du Justice was early this morning surrounded by large crowds, eager to gain admittance to the courtroom. A heavy force of Municipal Guards preserved order. Many excursionists came from distant points, the railroads treating the trial as they would a National holiday. One of the excursionists came from Meun, which was the constituency that Frederick Humbert represented in the Chamber of Deputies and in which was located the famous Humbert Chateau with its parks, lakes, yachts and a fleet of gondolas. Of the thousands who sought admission, only a few hundred of the highly favored gained an entrance to the court. Coquelin, the celebrated actor, was among the throng of artists, actors and authors seeking admission, and when he was
